

PRACTICAL NOTES

Venue – How to find PIK

The workshop will take place at PIK on the Campus Telegraphenberg.

Potsdam Institute for Climate Impact Research (PIK) e. V.
Telegrafenberg A 31
14473 Potsdam

You can reach it on foot in approximately 15 minutes from Potsdam main station, although the path is consistently uphill. Exiting from the main station at 'Friedrich Engels Str.,' cross the tram and bus station, as well as Friedrich Engels street. Follow the footpath (50 m) to the next parallel street (Heinrich Mann Allee), cross it at the traffic light, and ascend 100 m to the subsequent traffic light. Turn into 'Albert-Einstein-Str.' at this point, which initially traverses a small residential area and then a wooded area. Ultimately, it terminates at the entrance of the 'Einstein-Wissenschaftspark,' housing PIK and other institutes.

There is also a minibus \(No. 691\) that leaves Potsdam main station (Friedrich-Engels-Str., platform 7) heading towards 'Einstein-Wissenschaftspark' (name of the bus stop is Telegrafenberg) in the mornings and in the evenings. You can use this link to find real-time connections to Telegrafenberg.

The workshop will be held in the "Trefol" A56 and some sessions will take place in House H (building in shared use). Please refer to the below plan to get there.
